IN BRIEF

Interpol president reported missing during trip to China

The president of Interpol, a former senior Chinese security official, has been reported missing after he travelled to his native country at the end of September, a French judicial official said Friday. Meng Hongwei's wife reported Friday that she had not heard from her 64-year-old husband since he left Lyon,

France, where Interpol is based, said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity to provide details of an ongoing investigation. The French official said Meng did arrive in China. There was no further word on Meng's schedule in China or what prompted his wife to wait until now to report his absence. In a statement, Interpol said it was aware of reports about Meng's disappearance and added "this is a matter for the relevant authorities in both France and China."

Toyota recalls 2.4 mn hybrid vehicles over stalling issue

Toyota Motor said it was recalling a total of 2.43 million gasoline hybrid vehicles at home and abroad over a hybrid system issue which can lead to stalling. The recall, which includes Prius and Auris models, covers vehicles produced between October 2008 and November 2014. It affects about 1.25 million vehicles sold in Japan, 830,000 vehicles in North America, and 290,000 vehicles sold in Europe Vehicles sold in China, Africa, Oceania and other regions are

Pak anti-graft body arrests Shahbaz Sharif in two cases

Shahbaz Sharif was arrested by the country's anti-graft body on Friday for his alleged involvement in a housing scam, the latest setback to the embattled Sharif family. Shahbaz, 67, is the younger brother of ousted prime minister Nawaz Sharif, who is facing corruption charges in three cases. U nilever scrapped plans to move its headquar-ters to the Netherlands on Friday in the face of a British shareholder revolt, keeping one of the country's most valuable companies in London ahead of Bredt.

The climbdown comes three weeks ahead of a vote on the plan and is a significant victory for UK shareholders big and small who opposed the move, which would have kicked the maker of Dove soap and Ben & Jerry's ice cream out of the benchmark FTSE 100 index.

"We are pleased they have abandoned the plan to 'go Dutch', said GAM portfolio manager Ali Miremadi, who was planning to vote against the move. "Now the company can put its focus into the core job driving long-term shareholder value." Shareholders represent-ing about 12 per cent of Unilever had publicly opposed the move, concerned about the effective forced selling of their shares

Musk's influence at the company as well as moves to over-see his output on social media.

Shares of Tesia fell as much as 4 per cent on Friday, after Chief Executive Elon Musk stirred nerves about the settlement of his securities fraud lawsuit by mocking the US Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) on Twitter.

The tweet calling the SEC the "Shortseller Enrichment Commission" came just hours after a federal judge ordered Musk and the SEC to write a letter justifying a settlement which allows him to remain in charge at Tesla. Just want to that the Shortseller that the Shortseller Enrichment Commission is doing incredible work," Musk, a frequent critic of investors bet-ting against the electric car company said in the tweet.
"And the name change is so on point!" The electric carmaker's shares plunged last week after the SEC accused Musk, 47, of fraud over "false and misle
